Fifty State History Roadmap

A Coast-to-Coast Adventure Through All 50 States!

1776

2026

Welcome, Adventurer!

Hi there! We're Buddy and Taco. We've traveled ALL the way across the United States of America. We've seen the mountains and the oceans, the deserts and the prairies, the big cities and the tiny towns.

And now we want to take YOU on the same adventure!

In the pages that follow, you'll travel through all 50 states in the order they became part of the United States — from Delaware all the way to Hawaii. Along the way, you'll discover fun facts, learn state nicknames and birds, and uncover some truly surprising history.

How to Use This Roadmap

This booklet has five sections:

1. The USA Map — Find all 50 states and the order they became states
2. The State Facts — Learn interesting facts about each state
3. 250 Years of Amazing! — Fun trivia from the past 250 years of American history
4. State Name Word Search — Find 15 state names hidden in the grid
5. The Big USA Crossword — Use clues from the state pages to fill it in!

A Note for Parents and Teachers

This booklet is designed for children ages 5-9 and coordinates with the 250th anniversary of the United States in 2026. It is a companion to the picture book Buddy and Taco Travel the USA, which explores ten iconic American destinations through rhyming adventure storytelling.

Each state entry includes the statehood year, capital city, state nickname, state bird, and a kid-friendly fun fact written in Buddy and Taco's voice. The activities at the back of the booklet draw on content from the state pages, making this a self-contained learning tool for home or classroom use.

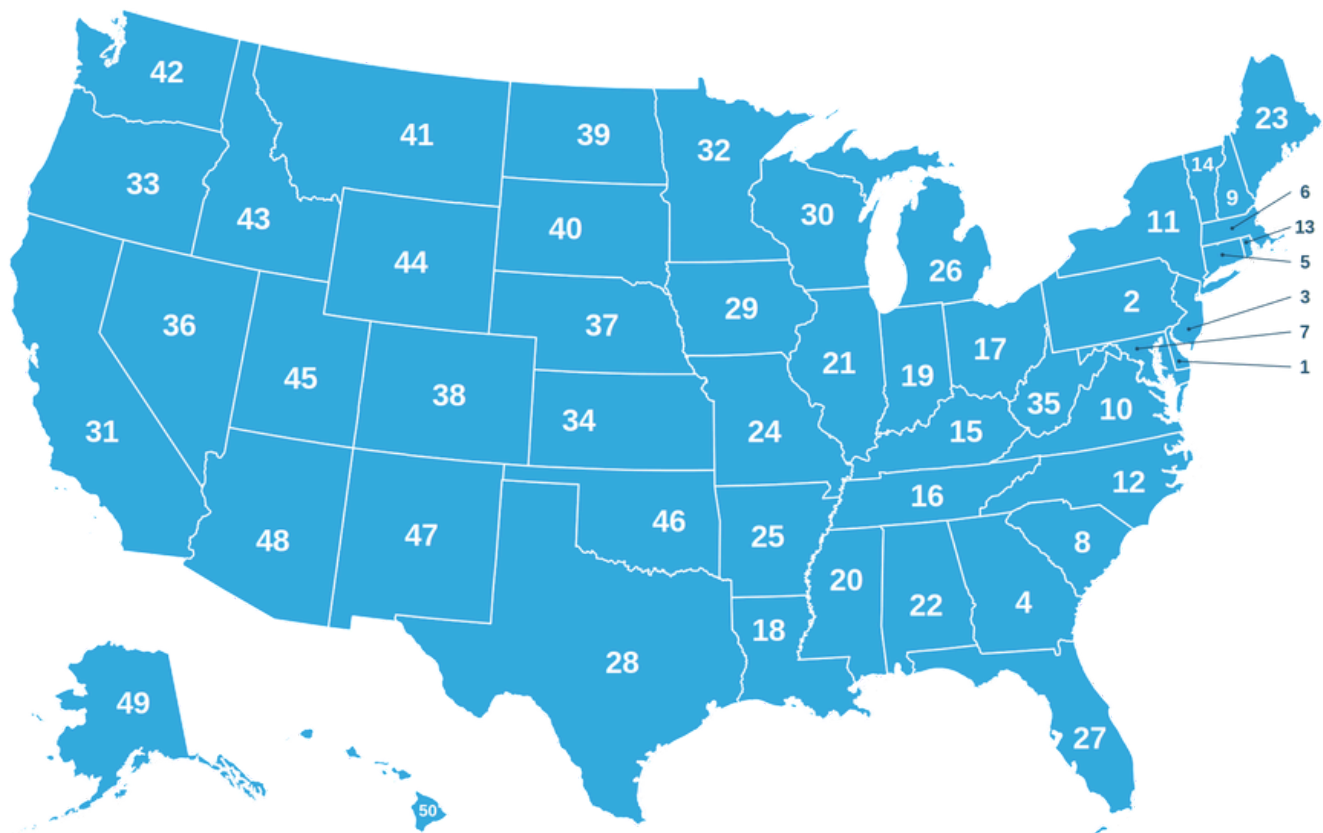

Happy adventuring! — Buddy & Taco

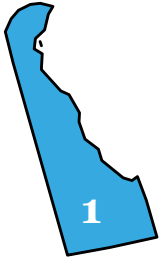

The USA Map: All 50 States in Order!

Each state on the map below has a number. That number tells you the ORDER in which the state joined the United States. Delaware was #1 and Hawaii was #50!

Can you find your state? Look for its number on the map, then find that state on the following pages to learn more!

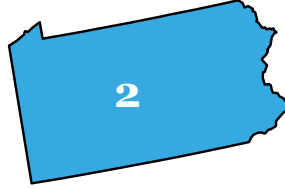

The 50 States: In Order of Statehood

Fun Facts About U.S. Territories

Did you know there are parts of the U.S. that are NOT states?

Washington D.C. and five island territories are all part of the United States but are not counted among the 50 states. Washington D.C. is the capital of the entire country, where the president lives and where Congress makes the laws. The five territories are islands in the Pacific Ocean and the Caribbean Sea whose residents are connected to the United States in important ways. People who live in all of these places contribute to the United States every day. Many serve in the U.S. military, follow U.S. federal laws, and use U.S. currency, but they do not have full voting representation in Congress the way the 50 states do. Some people think one or more of them should become a state one day. For now, they are a very special and important part of the American family!

Washington D.C.

"The Nation's Capital"

Established: July 16, 1790 (created by Congress as the permanent seat of the U.S. government)

Official Bird: Wood Thrush

Buddy & Taco Say: Washington D.C. isn't a state. It's a district created just to be the home of the United States government! The president lives here in the White House, Congress meets here at the Capitol, and the National Mall is lined with some of the greatest museums and monuments in the world!

Puerto Rico

"La Isla del Encanto" (The Island of Enchantment)

Established: Became a U.S. territory on December 10, 1898, following the Spanish-American War. Puerto Ricans have been U.S. citizens since 1917.

Official Bird: Reinita Mora (Puerto Rican Spindalis)

Buddy & Taco Say: Puerto Rico is a beautiful island in the Caribbean Sea, about 1,000 miles southeast of Florida. It has lush rainforests, stunning beaches, and a rich history that blends Spanish, African, and Taíno cultures. Everyone born in Puerto Rico is an American citizen, but the island has its own flag, its own governor, and its own unique traditions that make it one of the most colorful places in the entire American family!

Guam

"Where America's Day Begins"

Established: Became a U.S. territory on December 10, 1898, following the Spanish-American War. Guamanians have been U.S. citizens since 1950.

Official Bird: Ko'ko' (Mariana Fruit Dove)

Buddy & Taco Say: Guam is a small island in the western Pacific Ocean. It is so far west that it's actually the first place in U.S. territory to see the sunrise each morning! That's how it got its nickname. Guam has been an important U.S. military base for over 100 years and is home to the indigenous Chamorro people, who have lived on the island for thousands of years.

U.S. Virgin Islands

"American Paradise"

Established: Purchased from Denmark on March 31, 1917, for $25 million in gold. Residents became U.S. citizens in 1927.

Official Bird: Yellow Breast (Bananaquit)

Buddy & Taco Say: The U.S. Virgin Islands are a group of stunning Caribbean islands that the United States actually bought from Denmark back in 1917 for $25 million in gold! The three main islands are St. Croix, St. Thomas, and St. John. St. Thomas is one of the busiest cruise ship destinations in the entire Caribbean, and the islands are known for their crystal-clear blue water and beautiful beaches.

American Samoa

"The Cradle of Polynesia"

Established: The eastern islands of Samoa were formally placed under U.S. control on April 17, 1900. American Samoans are U.S. nationals but not automatically U.S. citizens.

Official Bird: Manumea (Tooth-billed Pigeon)

Buddy & Taco Say: American Samoa is a group of islands in the South Pacific Ocean. They are so far from the U.S. mainland that it's nearly halfway to Australia! It is the southernmost territory of the United States and the only U.S. territory located south of the equator. American Samoa is known for its strong Polynesian culture, beautiful coral reefs, and for producing more NFL players per capita than anywhere else in the world!

Northern Mariana Islands

"Islands of the Marianas"

Established: Became a U.S. commonwealth on November 3, 1986. Residents have been U.S. citizens since 1986.

Official Bird: Mariana Fruit Dove (Totot)

Buddy & Taco Say: The Northern Mariana Islands are a chain of 14 islands in the western Pacific Ocean, not far from Guam. The islands were the site of major battles during World War II, and today they are known for their clear waters, coral reefs, and a mix of Chamorro, Carolinian, and other Pacific Islander cultures that make them one of the most unique places in the American family.
